Jonah and the Great Big Huge Gigantic Fish (One Act Play/Script/Skit) Annette Phillips

"Jonah and the Great Big Huge Gigantic Fish" is a one act play that was written with teaching children (and adults) about the Word of God.

The script is perfect for all ages and can be adapted for a few characters or many. Full time of play will be around 10 minutes unless you choose to add props and additional segments.

The only props that are required for this script is one piece of poster board, but you can add as many props as you like depending on space, time, and availability.

The script is funny and goes along with the King James Version of the book of Jonah from the beginning where God tells Jonah to go to Nineveh until the worm chews through the gourd vine at the end.

The script is written to use in a Sunday school, church or Youth Group setting, but can be made into a bigger production by adding costumes, background props, music, and more.
